DIEMERSFONTEIN

WINE & COUNTRY ESTATE

In the late 19th century, the Diemersfontein manor house was rebuilt on the site of a former farmhouse dating from the 1700's, with its lush formal gardens established around 1890.

When the Sonnenberg family (founders of Woolworths South Africa) purchased the Wellington property as a countryside retreat in 1943, Cecilia Sonnenberg embarked on a journey to rejuvenate the Manor Gardens.

Retaining many of the mature trees that flank the garden, she wished to do away with the formal structure of the previously installed garden and instead employ a more free-form and lush approach.

She planted a selection of her favourite shrubs and flowers, with the expansive rose garden being her pride and joy.

The setting where The Manor Gardens homes will be constructed has experienced three generations of family heritage, milestones achieved and fond memories.

AN EXCLUSIVE LIFESTYLE)f

The generous selection of flowers and shrubs established in the Manor Gardens make for a sensory delight with lush greens, vibrant flowers and sweet scents signalling the arrival of Spring. Secluded seating in the shade of well-established trees offers tranquillity and respite during the warmer Summer months.

Transformed into a quilt of warmer tones, the garden in Autumn sees the deciduous leaves turn to tones of rich amber and gold, before Winter delivers an abundance of bulb blooms to the beds.
